Reality stinks
sometimes!

Reality of Today's Market

- 75% of all business calls are not completed on the first attempt.
- 60% of all incoming calls are less important than the work they interrupt.
- 90% of all written phone messages contain incomplete information.
- 70% of executive time is spent in meetings, on another call or out of the office.
- 76% of all business communication is not time sensitive; about 20% is.

Reality of Today's Market

- 2% of sales are made on the first contact
- 3% of sales are made on the second contact
- 5% of sales are made on the third contact
- 10% of sales are made on the fourth contact
- 80% of sales are made on the fifth to twelfth contact

Here's another interesting number:

- - 44% of sales representatives quit after 1 "No".

leave off?

Reality of Today's Market

Back in

It's still tough...it
still can work

2017...A sales rep leaves on average 70 voicemails per day, requiring 60 seconds each, which adds up to approximately 25 hours per month. To make a time consuming task even worse, the typical voicemail sucks!

Reality of Today's Market

Recognize that...

- Prospects are busier than ever.
- Prospects want you to solve their problem not yours.
- Prospects will try to make your product a commodity.
- Prospects will want to know the price before you are ready to give it.
- You must establish value or it's all about price.
- Relationships have changed.

Things continue to change

You can overcome

Reality of Succeeding in Today's Market

- The secret of selling is never in the selling (or “in selling”)
- To sell successfully you must be in front of a qualified prospect.
- You must position yourself correctly.
- Today there is less margin for error.
- Prospects must believe you have something important to offer.
- Being trusted is more important than being liked.
- Being innovative will set you apart from the crowd

Behaviors of the evolving salesperson

Sales success today requires you to:

- Always be prospecting
- Always reach decision makers
- Always validate who you are and the company & products you represent
- Always show the value that makes you unique and not a commodity

You have to change

Basic, but better selling

Build a better opening statement...

- You have 3 to 5 seconds to engage
- You must gain immediate interest with these three keys... you must:
 1. Be brief
 2. Be able to be understood by a fifth grader
 3. Be conversationally memorized

Next level up

Basic, but better selling

Construct an opening statement...

1. Introduce and gain control
2. Present your Direct Value Statement
3. Close on your next step
 - An appointment
 - A continued conversation
 - A lead etc.

Tips when dialing for dollars

- If your goal is to get the phone call returned, don't leave information that would allow the person to make up their mind.
- Add a call-to-action to your message by providing a key date or something of interest that will encourage the person to return the call.
- Repeat your phone number twice. If the person can't quickly write your number down, you've given them a perfect reason to not call back. Mention the person's first name at least twice in the message, too, but don't use their last name
- Never state in the message that you will plan to call them back. Again, this only gives the person an excuse to ignore your message.

The phone is still
the most effective
tool

Tips when dialing for dollars

- Messages left on a Friday afternoon are the least likely to be returned. For most people,
- Monday mornings are very busy and, as a result, only high-priority activities will get their immediate attention.
- Do not leave voicemail messages at odd hours of the night.
- The best hours to leave voicemail messages are from 6:45 AM to 8:00 AM and from 4:30 PM to 6:30 PM. Aggressive people are usually working during these time periods, and the person receiving your message could potentially view you as someone like themselves.

TO: Pittsburgh Musical Theater

Subject: Literally put your ad in the hands of your target audience

Hi Colleen,
Over the weekend, I did a direct mail campaign for the Pittsburgh Musical Theater and with the results, I know they will perform; I have a great idea in mind. I know selling tickets can be difficult, so I'm trying something different such as a split ad with the performance details on the bottom half and the top half could be a coloring contest for kids. Would you like more details on how we can do this for you?
