Calibrate your meters, calculate the profits

Your meters should be 98%+ accurate, but you're probably getting 92%-97%. Each point is worth another bushel or two per acre. There's a lot of room for improvement.

Your meters – finger, vac, Precision, Deere, Kinze, White, CaseIH – need to be calibrated to your spacing, speed and seeds. You'll see more ears, yield, profit.

In 100 side-by-side trials over three years, a major seed company proved that annual meter calibration adds an average of 5.7 bushels per acre.

Calculate your return. Then come in and calibrate your meters before the spring rush. Ask about other tools for managing spacing, depth and germination.

IMPLEMENT

OUR MAGNUM[™] STORY:
THE POWER YOU WANT. THE EMISSIONS YOU DON'T.
THE END.

In recent independent tests*, the new Magnum 340 tractor with SCR (Selective Catalytic Reduction) technology outperformed the Deere 8335R tractor in fuel efficiency across the entire power band. Plus, the Magnum recorded up to 1% more drawbar horsepower than the competition. SCR technology provides the Magnum with clean, cool air, resulting in cleaner oil and less maintenance. To learn more, visit your Case IH dealer or caseih.com/beready to see how Case IH tractors with SCR technology can help prepare you for the future.

BE READY.

* Based on 2012 preliminary Research Triangle Institute (RTI) Fuel Economy (FE) test results. Fuel economy is measured in gallons per hour (GPH) at 15.25 hp (11.25 hp) and 17.5% of full power at 15.25 hp (11.25 hp). Actual results may vary. © 2012 Case IH. All rights reserved.
