71 Years Later

This year marked the 71st Anniversary of D-Day (June 6th, 1944), the largest seaborne invasion to ever take place. If you were 18 years old on that day you would now be 89.

Our history of D-Day seems to be told through the eyes of Omaha Beach in order to capture the horrific time our men had coming ashore. However, just around the corner was Utah Beach, which was also very challenging. You could almost write that as much went wrong as went right that early morning at 6:30 AM when the first 600 men of the 4th Infantry Division landed. It was all wrong! Of the four boats that were to guide the landing craft to their right locations three had sunk or were out of action and the last one was not in a location to affect the right beach landing. So there our troops were, looking at their maps and nothing in front of them looked familiar. The currents had pushed them down the beach into unfamiliar landscape. This was not going to be an easy day.

Just prior to the first wave loading and moving to shore,

Brigadier General Teddy Roosevelt, Jr., finally convinced his Division Commander to let him go ashore with the first wave. The General was no stranger to combat having earned numerous valorous decorations in WWI. He was 56 years old (the oldest man on the beach at D-Day), he had heart trouble, he had arthritis, he led from the front. He quickly sorted out the mess, got the men going towards their adjusted objectives and greeted his Division Commander at 11:00 AM, when he came ashore, with a completely adjusted battle plan. Years later General Omar Bradley was asked to name the single most heroic action he had ever seen in combat, and he replied, "Ted Roosevelt on Utah Beach." On July 12th General Roosevelt died of a heart attack in Normandy. The day he died he had been recommended for promotion to Major General, command of the 90th Division, and the Medal of Honor, which was awarded posthumously. Sometimes battles are literally won based on the personal courage of one man, and Teddy was our man on that day, at that place, at that time.

The sale of self-help books has soared since the year 2006 when sales reached nine billion dollars. In 2013, sales were expected to exceed thirteen billion dollars. Market researchers expect the market to grow at least 8% per year in the foreseeable future. The endless pages offering advice on "how to improve one's life," however, do not seem to be making a dent in solving man's most basic problem: a sinful nature. David offered an alternative to "self-help." He wisely encouraged us to turn to "God-help." "Commit your way to the Lord; trust in Him and He will do this. He will make your righteousness shine like the dawn, the justice of your cause like the noon day sun!" Confident living, for the Christian, really has a very simple formula: first commit and then trust. Commit, on one hand, means that we are "to completely and unreservedly rely in and on Him." He is not only our Savior but the Lord of our lives. Trust, on the other hand, means that we have a live and vibrant expectation that He alone is capable of leading, guiding, guarding and directing each step in our lives. We look in His Word to find His way. Committing and trusting in Him alone allows us to move from self-help to God-help. And the result will be obvious to us and others. We will radiate the righteousness of God by living a life that reflects His beauty and holiness. There is also the "integrity" element in our lives. Whatever we do will be born of the Holy Spirit because of our "right-living."

BEST POEM IN THE WORLD

I was shocked, confused, bewildered
 As I entered Heaven's door,
 Not by the beauty of it all,
 Nor the lights or its decor.
 But it was the folks in Heaven
 Who made me sputter and gasp--
 The thieves, the liars, the sinners,
 The alcoholics and the trash.
 There stood the kid from seventh grade
 Who swiped my lunch money twice.
 Next to him was my old neighbor
 Who never said anything nice.
 Bob, who I always thought
 Was rotting away in hell,
 Was sitting pretty on cloud nine,
 Looking incredibly well.

I nudged Jesus, 'What's the deal?
 I would love to hear Your take.
 How'd all these sinners get up here?
 God must've made a mistake.
 'And why is everyone so quiet,
 So somber - give me a clue.'
 'Hush, child,' He said,
 'they're all in shock.
 No one thought they'd be seeing you.'
JUDGE NOT!!
 Remember...Just going to church doesn't make you a Christian any more than standing in your garage makes you a car.
 Every saint has a PAST...
 Every sinner has a FUTURE!
 Now it's your turn... Share this poem.
