New law in Florida takes on Drone Spying

(July 2,2015)Floridians woke up this morning with more robust privacy protections thanks to a statute limiting drone surveillance that went into effect at midnight. (tenthamendmentcenter.com)

Connecticut Law Legalizes Hemp Farming, sets the stage to nullify federal ban (July 2,2015), a new law takes effect removing the ban on industrial hemp farming in Connecticut, setting the stage to nullify in practice the federal prohibition on the same. (tenthamendmentcenter.com)

Tennessee and Florida Laws in effect today (July2,2015) take on unconstitutional FDA restrictions

These new laws, called Right to Try, effectively nullify in practice some Food and Drug Administration (FDA) rules that block terminally ill patients from utilizing certain treatments, allowing them to access experimental medications and procedures not yet approved by the federal regulatory agency.(tenthamendmentcenter.com)

Oregon Marijuana Legalization Law Goes into Effect July1: Big Step Towards Nullification of Federal Prohibition

This week Oregon is taking a big step towards nullifying in practice a decades-long unconstitutional federal ban. On July 1st, people 21 and older will be able to legally possess up to 8 ounces of marijuana in their home and up to 1 ounce of marijuana outside their home. They'll also be able grow up to four plants on their own property. Retail sales are expected to begin sometime next year. All of this is illegal under federal law. (tenthamendmentcenter.com)

Valdosta Mayor Gayle Receives Certificate of Achievement

Valdosta Mayor John Gayle received the prestigious Certificate of Achievement from the Georgia Municipal Training Institute at the Georgia Municipal Association's (GMA) 82nd Annual Convention in Savannah on June 29.

The Georgia Municipal Training Institute, a cooperative effort of GMA and the University of Georgia's Carl Vinson Institute of Government, provides a nationally recognized series of training opportunities for elected city officials. To receive a Certificate of Achievement, a city official must complete a minimum of 72 units of credit, including at least 36 hours from the required list. The training program consists of a series of more than 50 courses.

"This is an outstanding achievement," said GMA Executive Director Lamar Norton. "We commend Mayor Gayle for this accomplishment and for the dedication he's shown in using this valuable resource to become a more effective city official."

Hobbs elected to GMA Board of Directors
Thomasville Mayor Pro Tem Greg Hobbs was elected to the Board of Directors for the Georgia Municipal Association (GMA) during the association's annual meeting in Savannah .

Former Boston Herald editor injured in North Carolina shark attack

A former editor-in-chief at The Boston Herald suffered serious injuries after he dramatically tried to fight off a 7-foot shark Wednesday off the coast of North Carolina.

Andrew F. Costello reportedly came face-to-face with the monster while vacationing with his family at the coastal town of Ocracoke.

Costello, 68, was swimming with his son around noon when the attack occurred.

"I could see from where I was standing that he had a big baseball-sized chunk of flesh taken off of his leg right above his knee and there was a lot of blood everywhere," Jackson Fuqua, 15, who witnessed the attack, told The Boston Herald.

"I saw a big trail of blood from the water to where the man was laying down on a beach towel. There were a lot of EMS workers all around him and they were frantically trying to help him and work to close the wounds he had," Fuqua told the paper.

Costello suffered wounds to his ribcage, lower leg, hip and hands, according to the paper. He is reportedly in fair condition at Vidant Medical Center in Greenville.

"He's doing well," his niece told the paper. "He's smiling."

Costello is the seventh person attacked along the North Carolina coast in three weeks, the most in at least 15 years. Most swimmers were attacked in shallow water. The injuries ranged from minor injuries to the heel and ankle of an 8-year-old boy in Surf City, to unspecified but initially critical injuries to an 18-year-old man bitten Saturday on a national seashore about 25 miles north of Cape Hatteras.

There have been at least 10 shark attacks in the Carolinas so far in 2015, according to the International Shark Attack File at the University of Florida. The first reported attack this year occurred on May 15 off South Carolina at Sullivan's Island, and two shark attacks were reported 90 minutes apart on June 14, when a 13-year-old girl and a 16-year-old boy each lost an arm while swimming at Oak Island in North Carolina.

Shark experts say the recent spate of attacks along on the coast of the Carolinas is due to so many more people getting in the water. Americans made 2.2 billion visits to beaches in 2010, up from 2 billion in 2001, according to a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers estimate.

Roger Rulifson, a distinguished professor of biology and senior scientist at East Carolina University, said recently that there have been reports of small bait fish coming closer to shore this summer, which attracts sharks. There have also been reports of larger numbers of sea turtles along the coast, which sharks also like to eat, he said.

Laura Irish Hefty of New Hope, Pa., said she was about 100 yards away when she saw a crowd gathering on the beach and went to investigate. She said her husband, David, saw blood on both legs of the latest victim, who turned out to be Costello.

Swimmers were back in the water at that spot within a couple of hours after the attack, Hefty said.

"Nobody seems to be that scared," she said.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER
Michael A. Guido, D.D.
Metter, Georgia

One day a man decided that he was going to kill President Harry S. Truman. He waited patiently for the right moment when the President would come into his line of sight. Just as he pulled the trigger and fired his gun, a Secret Service agent threw himself in front of the President, took the bullet and was killed. He gave his life for the President and the president's life was spared.

"I never knew what it meant," said Mr. Truman, "to have someone die in my place."

There is One, however, Who has died in our place that we might have eternal life and live forever with Him.

This One that gave His life did not live a secret life. He lived His life where all could see Him, hear Him, come to know Him and follow Him. The Bible says that "He loved me and gave Himself for me."

Thank God that He loves us, gave His Son for us, and that He died for us.

Let freedom ring.

In a letter to George Washington, Thomas Jefferson wrote: "No government ought to be without censors & where the press is free, no one ever will."

Your free community paper works hard each issue to provide you with great value. That value comes to you, our readers, at no cost. To some, freedom of the press means freedom from interference from others. We believe freedom of the press means that connection to our community should not cost the reader. You should not have to pay to be connected to or be a part of this region. That's why we're free.

Macaroni and Cheddar

Ingredients

- 1 tablespoon vegetable or olive oil, 1 turn of the pan in a slow stream
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 1/2 cups whole or 2 percent milk
- 3 cups shredded white cheddar cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, ground or freshly grated
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cayenne pepper, a couple pinches Salt
- 1 pound elbow macaroni, cooked 8 minutes or to al dente, with a little bite to it

Instructions

Heat a medium, deep skillet over medium heat. Add oil and butter. When butter melts into the oil, add flour and combine. Gently cook, whisking flour and butter together, until smooth and flour has had a chance to cook, about 3 minutes. Slowly add milk while continuing to whisk. Gently bring milk to a bubble while stirring frequently. Allow the milk to thicken a bit, then stir in 2 cups of shredded cheddar cheese a handful at a time. Season sauce with nutmeg and cayenne. Taste and add a little salt, if you like. Add cooked pasta to sauce and coat completely by turning over and over in the cheese sauce. Transfer to a baking dish and top with remaining cheese. Place baking dish under a hot broiler and brown the cheddar cheese on top.
