Commissioner Names New Legal Counsel for Juvenile Justice

Top Indigent Defense Lawyer Cindy Wang Joins DJJ Leadership Team
(DECATUR - GA) Commissioner Avery D. Niles is pleased to announce the hire of attorney Cindy Wang as the new General Counsel for the Georgia Department of Juvenile Justice. Director Wang joins the department after more than a decade as a top lawyer for Georgia's indigent defense agency. In her new role, Ms. Wang will oversee all legal issues involving the department, including individual litigation and state and federal law compliance.

Georgia teachers, state workers get good news about insurance premiums

About 650,000 teachers, state employees and government retirees got some good news Thursday, August 13th: average insurance premiums for most of their health care plans will drop or remain stable in 2016. Department of Community Health Commissioner Clyde Reese said the $3 billion State Health Benefit Plan had a good year financially so the state can afford to reduce premiums for many teachers and state employees.(Ga Trend)

Ga. unlikely to follow boost in minimum wage, lawmaker says

Tina Dickson has always paid her employees at Ingleside Village Pizza a little more than the federal minimum wage. "When we first opened up, I think the minimum wage was about $4.25 (an hour) ..., and we started everybody out at $4.75," Dickson said. "Now the minimum wage is $7.25, and I start everybody out at $9." But if the minimum hourly wage jumped up to $10.10 or $15 -- which some Georgia legislators proposed earlier this year -- "that would definitely hurt," she said.(Ga Trend)

U.S. Army: Two women pass Ranger School

Two women have passed Ranger School and are scheduled to graduate at Fort Benning on Friday morning, making them the first female soldiers to earn the coveted Ranger tab and complete the most difficult training the U.S. Army offers, it was announced late Monday. The Army has yet to identify the two women, who are both graduates of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. A third woman, also a West Point grad, is currently in the mountain phase of Ranger School.(Ga Trend)

Several recent surveys on the subject put public support of the use and implementation of body cameras in beat policing at about 90 percent.(Ga Trend)

Isakson Announces He Will Vote No on Iran Nuclear Agreement

'I will not be part of any agreement that allows the Iranians to develop a nuclear weapon'

WASHINGTON – U.S. Senator Johnny Isakson, R-Ga., a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, today announced that he will vote no on the nuclear agreement with Iran.

"This will be one of the most important votes I will ever take as a member of the Senate. I have said from day one that I will not be part of any agreement that allows the Iranians to develop a nuclear weapon.

"We have been told that that a vote against the agreement is a vote for war. I would suggest a vote against this agreement is a vote for strength over appeasement. In my 33 years in business, the best deals I ever negotiated were the ones where I was willing to walk away from the table and started over. For the security of my country and my grandchildren, we should say 'no' to this Iran deal."

THIS, THAT AND THE OTHER

A collection of fun facts, trivia, local lore and rumors.

THIS- If you haven't heard it already the City of Quitman will be losing Danny Herring as city manager effective October 23,2015. Good luck Danny. And there is a search on for a new Brooks County School superintendent. Brooks County and Morven will be raising property taxes, Brooks County by 7.12 % and Morven by 17.76 %. Barwick's millage rate will be going up but, property owners will not see more than a couple dollars increase.

THAT-Kremlin TV's Thom Hartmann, a paid agent of the Russian government's main propaganda channel, Russia Today (RT) television, is strongly supporting career politician and socialist Bernie Sanders for U.S. President. "Bernie Sanders could be the next FDR," he says.

Anti-Terrorism Bill Passes in North Carolina, it contains an amendment that allows the North Carolina National Guard to carry firearms to protect themselves while on duty. This is a great victory on the heels of the Chattanooga shooting. What Was Google Originally Called? The original Google storage was all of 40 GB, the company was called BackRub.

THE OTHER-If you get up in the middle of the night and turn on a bright light , that could be the reason you can't get back to sleep. A night light with a red or orange blub is a solution that won't hinder sleepiness. This from a study conducted by the Behavioral Sleep Medicine Program at the University of Pennsylvania.

Now is the time to start preparing your hay bales for a fall hay bale garden. Google hay bale gardening, and/or ask Nancy at Quality Cleaners about her hay bale garden.

Peanut Milk? The president of the National Peanut Board is hinting that peanut milk might be the next new craze. Check out a recipe at One GreenPlanet.org and make your own. Starting in January of next year Kraft foods will no longer be making Mac & Cheese with artificial preservatives or synthetic colors in the U.S., a response from customer demands.

LA 'black ball' reservoir rollout potential 'disaster' in the making, say experts

LA's scheme to cover a reservoir under 96 million "shade balls" may not be all it is touted to be, experts told FoxNews.com, with some critics going so far as to refer to the plan as a "potential disaster." The city made national headlines last week when Mayor

Eric Garcetti and Department of Water officials dumped $34.5 million worth of the tiny, black plastic balls into the city's 175-acre Van Norman Complex reservoir in the Sylmar section. Garcetti said the balls would create a surface layer that would block 300 million gallons from evaporating amid the state's crippling drought and save taxpayers $250 million.

Experts differed over the best color for the tiny plastic balls, with one telling FoxNews.com they should have been white and another saying a chrome color would be optimal. But all agreed that the worst color for the job is the one LA chose.

"Black spheres resting in the hot sun will form a thermal blanket speeding evaporation as well as providing a huge amount of new surface area for the hot water to breed bacteria," said Matt MacLeod, founder of the California biotech firm Modern Moon Farms. "Disaster. It's going to be a bacterial nightmare."

Any color covering will help stop wind-driven evaporation, said Robert Shibatani, principal hydrologist for the Sacramento-based environmental consultant The Shibitani Group. But when it comes to the hot summer sun sucking water out of the reservoir, color is everything, he said.

"Ideally you would want a chrome surface," he said. "The worst would be matte black, which has a reflectivity close to zero."

Biologist Nathan Krekula, a professor of health science at Bryant & Stratton College in Milwaukee, said black balls will absorb heat, transfer it to the water and cause evaporation. And he agreed with MacLeod that the heat will prove hospitable to bacteria.

"Bacteria required a few things to grow a dark, warm and moist environment," he said. "The balls will give them the perfect environment to live in."

"What works in backyard fish pond does not always transfer to large scale system such as this, Krekula added. "Keeping the balls clean when covered in bacteria and mold slime will be a monumental task."

Dennis Santiago, a risk analyst for Torrance-based Total Bank Solutions, suspects the real goal for the black-ball cover is to avoid steep Environmental Protection Agency fines. The federal agency's "Long-Term 2 Enhanced Surface Water Treatment Rule," announced in 2006, would require public and private water utilities to spend billions to cover open-air reservoirs that hold treated water to prevent contamination. Officials in several districts around the nation have balked at the EPA mandate, notably in New York, where lawmakers are fighting to block a $1.6 billion concrete cover the EPA has ordered built over a Yonkers reservoir.

"This is not about evaporation," Santiago said. "The water savings spin is purely political. What the black balls are really about is that [Los Angeles] needs to stay in-compliance with an EPA requirement to place a physical cover over potable water reservoirs."

Garcetti's office did note that the ball covering provides a "cost-effective investment that brings the LA Reservoir into compliance with new federal water quality mandates," but its emphasis on blocking evaporation was the clear focus at the event. Los Angeles Department of Water spokesman Albert Rodriguez told FoxNews.com the city has plenty of time to get in compliance with the EPA.

While this latest shade ball initiative continues to generate publicity, it is not the first time Los Angeles utilized the concept. After high levels of bromate, a potentially carcinogenic chemical, were found in the Silver Lake and Ivanhoe reservoirs in 2008, the Department of Water deployed the balls.

Sydney Chase, president of XavierC, one of the shade ball supply companies behind the project, said the color is a result of pure black carbon being added to the high density polyethylene plastic to take in ultra-violet rays and subsequently stop sunlight from penetrating the plastic. Any other color would have required dyes, said Rodriguez, which could have then leached into the water while the carbon black does not.

LUNCHBOX SAFETY

Is your child's food still safe by lunch time? Sometimes parents' do not realize that certain foods need to be chilled and separated. This can result in food borne illnesses.

Here are some tips to keep your child's food safe and give parents piece of mind.

Perishable foods won't stay safe long, they need to be 40 degrees or below. Use an ice source like a frozen beverage or ice pack.

Use clean and insulated containers to keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold.

Remember to wash fresh fruits and veggies prior to packing.

Some foods don't need a cold source for example, uncut fruits and veggies, hard cheese, canned meat, peanut butter and jelly, mustard and pickles.

Follow these tips to keep your child's food safe from dangerous bacteria and your child safe from a foodborne illness.

This has been Roxie Price, Family and Consumer Sciences Agent with UGA Extension in Tift County.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

Michael A. Guido, D.D.
Minister, Georgia

One of the major influences in our society today is the emphasis on being "politically correct." The threat or possibility of offending anyone about anything at any time has silenced many of us. We fear that we will be condemned or criticized. Unfortunately, many Christians now remain silent when opportunities to speak of or for their faith arise. Rather than defending the gospel we have become fearful of offending others even if their values are wrong and beliefs unscriptural. Being politically correct was not a problem for David. In fact, it was the exact opposite. He was not ashamed to speak boldly and publicly about God's involvement in his life. He had no hesitancy or fear to talk about his relationship with God. Once at a very special occasion in front of a large crowd he said, Al

He had been through an intense struggle with God. It must have been both long and difficult. But finally, his patience and perseverance, his respect and reverence for God were rewarded and his prayer was finally answered. As he reflected on God's goodness and thought about His mercy and blessings, he could not contain himself. Al speak of your faithfulness - Your salvation, love and truth, @ he proclaimed. "I do not seal...I could not conceal...my gratitude." If we were taking about this event today, we would say that David "gave his testimony to a large gathering." However, it was not the size of the group that mattered to David. It was his need "to proclaim" God's salvation and faithfulness to others. He could not be contained when it came to sharing his faith.

Prayer to HOLY SPIRIT

HOLY SPIRIT, you who make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the Divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that has been done to me, and you who are in all instances of my life, with me, I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you, no matter how great material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen.

Say this three consecutive days, asking for your wish, After the third day, wish will be granted, no matter how difficult. Promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your wish is granted as mine was.

Thank you very much. V.R.

Believe it or not, the following announcements actually appeared in various church bulletins. Don't let worry kill you -- let the church help.

Thursday night - Potluck supper. Prayer and medication to follow. Remember in prayer the many who are sick of our church and community.

For those of you who have children and don't know it, we have a nursery downstairs. The rosebud on the alter this morning is to announce the birth of David Alan Belzer, the son of Rev. and Mrs. Julius Belzer.

This afternoon there will be a meeting in the South and North ends of the church. Children will be baptized at both ends.

Tuesday at 4:00 PM there will be an ice cream social. All ladies giving milk will please come early. Wednesday the ladies liturgy will meet. Mrs. Johnson will sing "Put me in my little bed" accompanied by the pastor.

How To Easily Remove Labels from jars.

That glue on jar labels drives me nuts! I can peel the paper layer off and then I am left with this: Yucky, sticky glue residue.

Remove-labels-easily-from-glass
Well not any more my friends!!

What you need:

- Baking Soda
- Vegetable Oil

That's it!! Mix equal parts of the two to form a runny paste.

Once I remove the paper part of the label, I mixed up my magic paste. I apply a thick layer of it to the jar and smear it all over the gluey sticky part. Homemade-goo-gone

I let it sit on there about 10 minutes or so. That number is not exact. I slapped it on the jar and then got distracted a few times with the kids and remembered to come back to it as I passed by. I took a paper towel and then wiped away the paste from the jar. All the adhesive that was left on the jar was now wiping away with my paste mixture! I gave the jar a good wash with soap to get rid of the oil residue and I was left with this crystal clear jar!

ARMY VALUES
RESPECT: TREAT PEOPLE AS THEY SHOULD BE TREATED.

In the Soldier's Code, we pledge to "treat others with dignity and respect while expecting others to do the same." Respect is what allows us to appreciate the best in other people. Respect is trusting that all people have done their jobs and fulfilled their duty. And self-respect is a vital ingredient with the Army value of respect, which results from knowing you have put forth your best effort. The Army is one team and each of us has something to contribute.

Easy Slow Cooker Pork Roast with Red Potatoes

Ingredients:
 1 pork roast
 6-8 washed red potatoes
 1 packet onion soup mix

Directions:
 Place pork roast in slow cooker. Sprinkle entire packet of onion soup mix over the top of roast. Cover with lid and set slow cooker on HI for 8 hours. After 4 hours, place potatoes around the roast and cover again and finish cooking. There is no need to add water to this. Roast comes out tender and moist and just falls apart with a fork. Potatoes are easily cut or mashed with fork and taste fantastic when some of the juice is poured on them. . I love how the meat just falls apart when it's done, and there is enough juice created to pour over the red potatoes.

Cook and crumble bacon. While bacon is cooking, cut chicken into bite-sized chunks. Set cooked bacon aside for later use. In the same pan, cook chicken in bacon drippings. Add garlic powder and salt and pepper to taste.
