Walmart to raise hourly wage in Georgia; provide raises for 58,900 workers

Wal-Mart Stores Inc. (NYSE: WMT) says it will provide 58,900 additional raises for associates across the state, which will increase the full-time average hourly wage in Georgia to $13.64, and the average wage for part-time associates to $10.47 an hour. The raises will take place by February 2016, the company says. The raises represent an investment of $87.4 million in Georgia, Walmart adds. (Ga Trend)

Ga. House Leader Suggests Brewery Regulations Repeal

Georgia House Speaker David Ralston (R-Blue Ridge) says the Department of Revenue needs to change regulations on craft beer sales from breweries after the agency blocked a new state law that allows beer sales to customers who take brewery tours. In a statement he said, the new law, SB 63, "was meant to allow craft breweries – a growing industry of small businesses – to expand their operations and grow jobs across this state." (Ga Trend)

UGA Marine Extension launches state's first oyster hatchery

Erin Geoffrey reports that a Georgia's oyster season just beginning, the University of Georgia Marine Extension has opened the state's first oyster hatchery, which is expected to revive the once-thriving oyster industry in Georgia. The hatchery will help establish an oyster aquaculture industry in Georgia, allowing harvesters to farm single oysters that can be sold on the half-shell, a lucrative market fueled by rising restaurant and consumer demand.(Ga Trend)

Kemp Encourages Election Officials to Hire More Veterans Launches "Recruit a Veteran Poll Worker" Initiative Atlanta, Georgia

Secretary of State Brian Kemp announced today the "Recruit a Veteran Poll Worker" initiative for Georgia veterans. Election officials across the state are being encouraged to hire veterans to prepare for next year's election cycle which kicks off with the "SEC Primary" on March 1, 2016. In preparation for the 2016 election cycle, Secretary Kemp recently launched a website with training videos and materials for poll workers serving across the state. At <https://georgiapollworkers.sos.ga.gov>, a veteran interested in becoming a poll worker can electronically submit their information, including their name, address, contact information, and branch of service, to election officials in his or her community. Once hired, the veteran will receive a letter and lapel pin from Secretary Kemp to thank them for their continued service to Georgia.

FTC Blocks Staples-Office Depot Merger

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) last week filed a complaint, charging that Staples Inc.'s proposed acquisition of Office Depot Inc. would violate antitrust laws by reducing competition nationwide in the industry for "consumable" office supplies, including writing instruments, notepads, folders and paper products, sold to large-business customers. The FTC has authorized staff to seek a temporary restraining order and a preliminary injunction to prevent the parties from finalizing the merger, and to maintain the status quo before the administrative proceeding, which is scheduled to begin on May 10, 2016.

Enrollment Now Available for Identity Protection Services

Atlanta, Georgia – Secretary of State Brian Kemp announced today that one year of complimentary credit monitoring and identity restoration services are now available to all Georgia voters whose information appeared on the October 13, 2015 voter list. Eligible voters may enroll in the services at the Secretary of State's website using the below link:
http://soswebadmin.sos.state.ga.us/index.php/elections/statement_on_voter_data_security
"While I am confident that every voters' personal data is secure, these services are being offered to provide Georgia voters with peace of mind," said Secretary of State Brian Kemp.

A 'Gay Pride Festivus Pole' could soon land in Georgia's Capitol

A new phase in the War on Christmas? A free speech group called The Humanity Fund petitioned state authorities for the right to hoist a "Gay Pride Festivus Pole" under the Gold Dome.

Chaz Stevens, the group's director, said the pole is 6'6" tall, painted with purple glitter, splashed with rainbow colors and topped with a disco ball. The pole has already graced statehouses in Florida, and there are plans to mount it in Illinois, Michigan and Washington. It was also recently approved by officials in Oklahoma.

For the uninitiated, Festivus is a fictional holiday depicted in Seinfeld celebrated on Dec. 23. It features a family dinner where, in the words of Frank Constanza, celebrants get to "tell them all the ways they have disappointed you over the past year" followed by a "feats of strength" contest. It's unclear whether Georgia officials will allow the Festivus pole, but it's hit a roadblock in Arkansas. Officials there denied Stevens' request earlier this month, citing trademark issues and concerns about how the pole will be anchored.

Stevens said it should be a no-brainer for Georgia leaders. "There are no moving parts, no power requirements," he said. "But plenty of opportunities to air one's grievances."

Christmas 2015

I wait all year for the Christmas Season and Christmas Eve and Day. I just love saying "Merry Christmas" and I feel settled and uplifted at church listening to the story about the birth of Christ. Like a lot of people I just cannot get enough of this holiday. I have played Santa Claus a few times for my Army unit and nothing beats handing out toys to children. The stocking are hung and the elf hats, which read Merry Christmas, are ready for Christmas Day.

And, Christmas Dinner. What a treat it is. I have eaten it in mess halls; I have eaten it in the field, in the rain. It was all good, even the wet turkey, wet mashed potatoes, and cold gravy. It was good because the Army cooks made that extra effort to get a Christmas dinner to us. So let me share a past Christmas menu with you.

The SS Mexican was pressed into service during WWI to ferry horses to Europe and then was transformed into a troop ship to bring our soldiers home. The Navy is known for its good food, the Army, not so much. Here is their menu from December 25th, 1918.

- Oysters on the Half Shell
- Celery
- Giblet Soup
- Olives Salted Almonds
- Baked Sugar Ham with Champagne Sauce
- Roast Turkey with Oyster Dressing
- Giblet Gravy Cranberry Sauce
- Mashed Potatoes
- Asparagus Tips Green Peas
- Roman Punch
- Salad "Mexican"
- Christmas Plum Pudding, Hard Sauce
- Ice Cream Assorted Cakes
- Fruit Nuts

Merry Christmas!

VENSION FREEZING SAFETY

Here in our territory deer hunting is not only a popular sport but a good source for meat in the freezer. Food safety rules apply to prevent spoilage and the possibility of foodborne illness because freezing does not kill bacteria. It is recommended to chill the meat within 3 to 4 hours.

Do not overwhelm the freezer with too many pounds of meat. If you cannot spread the packages out in your home freezer to allow for rapid freezing, take the meat to a freezer storage facility.

If you are freezing ground venison at 0 degrees Fahrenheit or colder, remember to store it for no more than 3 to 5 months. Venison roasts and steaks can be stored for 6 to 12 months at the same temperature. However, as with all meats, the quality and flavor of venison will deteriorate over time.

Hanging Wreath Trio

I have been drooling over pared down trees, sparsely punctuated with white or natural ornaments. So this year, that's what I've got and it looks fabulous, I am very pleased.

However, last year's triple wreath, draped in candy cane ribbon on the outside of the house, wasn't accurately representing what was going on inside the house and that is very important to me.

I definitely needed something new, but when I made the decision to revamp my holiday style, I promised myself that I would try to do it without spending a lot of money.

I simply looped the wreaths together with a piece of ribbon and hid the knots in the back. I made a small loop on top to hang it up!

It was a quick restyle that looks fabulous and I have to say that I am really amazed how different the entire wreath looks now...all due to a small (super cheap!) ribbon swap.

outside yet, my door looks pretty festive now and that's a good start! I think it suits the simple style of the home very well and it feeds my need for pared down decor!

Commentary on Luke:1 Verses 26-38

We have here an account of the mother of our Lord; though we are not to pray to her, yet we ought to praise God for her. Christ must be born miraculously. The angel's address means only, Hail, thou that art the especially chosen and favoured of the Most High, to attain the honour Jewish mothers have so long desired. This wondrous salutation and appearance troubled Mary. The angel then assured her that she had found favour with God, and would become the mother of a son whose name she should call Jesus, the Son of the Highest, one in a nature and perfection with the Lord God. JESUS! the name that refreshes the fainting spirits of humbled sinners; sweet to speak and sweet to hear, Jesus, a Saviour! We know not his riches and our own poverty, therefore we run not to him; we perceive not that we are lost and perishing, therefore a Saviour is a word of little relish. Were we convinced of the huge mass of guilt that lies upon us, and the wrath that hangs over us for it, ready to fall upon us, it would be our continual thought, Is the Saviour mine? And that we might find him so, we should trample on all that hinders our way to him. Mary's reply to the angel was the language of faith and humble admiration, and she asked no sign for the confirming her faith. Without controversy, great was the mystery of 1 timothy nature must be produced so, as it was fit that should be which was to be taken into union with the Divine nature. And we must, as Mary here, guide our desires by the word of God. In all conflicts, let us remember that with God nothing is impossible; and as we read and hear his promises, let us turn them into prayers, Behold the willing servant of the Lord; let it be unto me according to thy word.

CHRISTMAS CHEER

A man I know, Jack, 89 years old, was stopped by the police at 2 o'clock in the morning. He was asked where he was going at that time of night . Jack replied, "I'm on my way to a lecture about alcohol abuse and the effects it has on the human body, as well as smoking and staying out late." The officer asked, "Really? Who's giving that lecture at this time of night?" Jack replied, "That would be my wife."

Beer-Braised Brisket

Serve brisket with sauces, slaw, pickles, and rolls so guests can assemble into sandwiches.

Ingredients

Servings: 12

- 6 garlic cloves
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 tablespoon freshly ground black pepper
- 1 tablespoon ground cumin
- 1 tablespoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- ¼ cup kosher salt, plus more
- 1 8-10-pound untrimmed flat-cut brisket
- 2 onions, thinly sliced
- 1 12-ounce can lager

Recipe Tips

Finely chop garlic in a food processor. Add brown sugar, mustard, oil, black pepper, cumin, paprika, cayenne, and ¼ cup salt and process until smooth. Rub all over brisket, working into crevices. Wrap in plastic; chill 1-2 days. Let meat sit out until room temperature, about 1 hour.

Preheat oven to 325°. Scatter onions in a large roasting pan and set brisket, fat side up, on top. Add beer; cover with foil. Braise until meat is very tender, 5-6 hours. Remove from oven; heat broiler. Broil brisket, uncovered, until top is browned and crisp, 5-10 minutes.

Let brisket cool slightly. Remove from pan and shred or slice. Remove onions with a slotted spoon; mix into brisket. Taste and moisten with some cooking liquid and season with salt, if needed.

Do Ahead: Brisket can be braised 1 day ahead. Let cool; cover and chill. Reheat, covered, at 325° for 1½ hours.
