WASHINGTON – U.S. Senator Johnny Isakson, R-Ga., a member of the Senate Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee, today introduced bipartisan legislation that would help to accelerate the development of a vaccine and treatments for the Zika virus, a mosquito-borne disease that has spread rapidly throughout South America and has made its way to the United States.

Less reliance on standardized tests in Georgia Senate proposal

Walter C. Jones reports that teacher, evaluations would be less dependent on student-exam scores, and parents would be able to opt out of standardized tests under legislation introduced Wednesday in the Senate. Just three years ago, the legislature enacted a grading system for classroom instructors where half was based on test scores in compliance with federal mandates. The state is only now phasing in that requirement statewide after trying it in a dozen or so districts as part of a $400 million Race to the Top grant Georgia received. (Ga Trend)

Year's First Religious Freedom Bill Passes Georgia House

Rep. Brian Strickland (R-McDonough) sponsored the bill, which prevents state schools from participating in sports associations that bar athletes from wearing religious images. "As long as the expression does not conflict with the rules of the event or the safety of the players, it cannot be prohibited," Strickland said from the House floor. (Ga Trend)

Dental hygienist bill remains on hold, but prospects improving

A health committee of the Georgia House tabled a bill Tuesday that would allow dental hygienists to practice in safety-net settings without a dentist present. But a hearing on House Bill 684 showed there was new dialogue between Rep. Sharon Cooper, chair of the House Health and Human Services Committee, and the Georgia Dental Association about the proposal. (Ga Trend)

Cordele | Crisp County: Banking On Trains

Necessity has certainly become the mother of invention in Southwest Georgia's Crisp County, where economic development and downtown revitalization are both banking on the presence of rails to boost the local economy. Much of the county's bread and butter still originates through some aspect of the railroad – from existing industries such as railroad crosstie manufacturer Stella-Jones to the expanding Cordele Inland Port to the tourism draw of the SAM Shortline Excursion Train.

Growing itch: Tackling the business of Zika and blood suckers

Professional mosquito killers are a little puzzling on this thing about the Zika virus. They are kind of laid back about it, at least compared to some members of the public. It's not like this is their first disease rodeo. (Ga Trend)

Atlanta Falcons owner Arthur Blank discloses having curable prostate cancer

Arthur Blank, owner of the Atlanta Falcons and co-founder of the Home Depot, disclosed in an exclusive interview Tuesday that he has been diagnosed with curable prostate cancer. Blank, 73, said that after multiple visits with different cancer specialists and hospitals around the country, he has opted to have surgery later this month. (Ga Trend)

These Are the 10 Most Boring Cities In Georgia

They used data and science to identify which places in Georgia are total snoozefests.

There's no denying it: there are plenty of places in Georgia that are downright beautiful and full of excitement.

Unfortunately, not all towns and cities in GA are so lucky.

Just like in all U.S. States, there are definitely some boring places within Georgia's borders. You know the places: the ones where everyone has an AARP card and the most exciting thing they do all day is post a picture of their grandchild on Facebook.

Like Tyrone, for instance. In our latest analysis, we found that this city was the most boring city in all of Georgia. But don't feel bad if you're a resident of Tyrone. There are plenty of other boring, lackluster places in Georgia as well.

Here they are. Try not to jump out of your seat with excitement:

1. Tyrone
2. Peachtree City
3. Jefferson
4. Fort Oglethorpe
5. Braselton
6. Snellville
7. Bremen
8. Milton
9. Jesup
10. Adel

Before you get all upset if your city's name is on the list, rest assured that we didn't use personal opinion when it comes to what classifies a city or town as "boring" or "exciting". We crunched actual numbers to figure out which towns are statistically more boring.

For cities close to us, Thomasville came in at 51, Valdosta at 124 and Moultrie hit number 58.

Quitman didn't make the list nor did any other cities in Brooks County...hum.

To see a complete list and how they arrived at the outcome of the most boring cities in Georgia according to www.homesnacks.net ,, go to their web site. Enjoy.

About Registering for a Military Draft — Let's Just Say It - Women Have Spoken Wasn't Even Close

Most American women are against having to register for a military draft, a Rasmussen Reports poll found Wednesday. While 61% of men support a law requiring women to register for the selective service, a policy of which females are currently exempt, just 38% of women supported such a proposition. Only 10% of women were undecided on the matter, but 52% affirmatively opposed registering for a draft.

According to Rasmussen Reports:

"The draft hasn't been used since the Vietnam War, and most voters hope to keep it that way. Just 29% of all voters think the United States should have a military draft, although that is up 11 points from five years ago." Along party lines, the position on women being required to enlist in the military in the event of a reinstatement of the draft is more evenly matched.

According to the poll, 53% of Republicans are against register women, while 49% of Democrats hold the same position.

The prospect of registering women for the military draft arose from top officers in the United States Army and Marine Corps calling for it in the wake of pushes by the Obama administration to place female troops in combat units.

But even if women generally oppose having to register for the draft — and its original proposition was intended to prove a point — there are sharp divisions on what is the proper course of action.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER
 Michael A. Guido, D.D.
 Metter, Georgia

"I don't want to die. Please don't let me die," he whispered in desperation. He was a world leader - loved by many, dreaded by some, questioned by others. He was a prominent figure on the world's stage having great power and prestige, wealth and control that could not be denied. But in his final moments everything that he had or had accomplished could not extend the life of Hugo Chavez one moment nor release him from his fear of dying. David wrote of a life that could end this way. "Here now is the man who did not make God his stronghold."

Another man came to the end of his life who was also a world leader. His résumé describes him as a ruler with great power and authority, vast wealth and owner of beautiful buildings, a soldier, a poet, one who cared deeply for others and was "a man after God's own heart." When he faced death he said, "When I walk through the dark valley of death I will not be afraid."

Two different men, two different destinies because of two different choices. One lived his life with no fear of God. He sought fame and the favor of man. The other lived his life in fear of God and sought His favor, often His forgiveness but always His approval.

All of us have these same choices. We can live for ourselves, as Hugo Chavez did, seeking recognition and power and die in fear as he did. Or, we can choose to live for God as David did, serve Him faithfully with great love and passion and die as he did in peace.

Will the Internet kill your free community paper? Did instant potatoes kill potatoes?

New technologies change many things. But not everything. You may tweet, blog, surf, shop, or search online but you continue to read your free community paper. You just proved it.

Readership of free community papers is now higher than paid daily papers and continues to grow. Rather than being replaced by "instant" media, your local free community paper has become an important part of our neighborhood.

The reason, which sometimes is not heard

because of all the noise about the Internet, is pretty obvious: your free community paper does what the Internet doesn't. We promote connections at a local level. Free papers join readers and advertisers in ways digital media doesn't.

In fact, the local content and power of your free paper makes advertising even more effective. We are the number one medium for driving purchases. That's important in every product category.

Including potatoes.

Student buys 900 Valentine's Day carnations, one for each girl at school

Hayden Godfrey, a 17-year-old senior at Sky View High School in Smithfield, enlisted some 20 volunteers to help him pass out all the carnations during fifth period on Thursday, KUTV reports.

"I don't think anything can compare to seeing every girl in your life holding a flower as they walk through the halls," Godfrey wrote on Facebook.

He reportedly bought the flowers through an online service. Godfrey didn't say how much he spent, but wrote that the experience was "totally worth it."

Qualifying For Heaven

Recently a teacher, a garbage collector, and a lawyer wound up together at the Pearly Gates. St. Peter informed them that in order to get into Heaven, they would each have to answer one question.

St. Peter addressed the teacher and asked, "What was the name of the ship that crashed into the iceberg? They just made a movie about it."

The teacher answered quickly, "That would be the Titanic." St. Peter let him through the gate.

St. Peter turned to the garbage man and, figuring Heaven didn't really need all the odors that this guy would bring with him, decided to make the question a little harder: "How many people died on the ship?" Fortunately for him, the trash man had just seen the movie. "1,228," he answered.

"That's right! You may enter."

St. Peter turned to the lawyer. "Name them."

Georgia House passes 'Pastor Protection Act'

Clergy could not be forced to perform a same-sex wedding ceremony under legislation unanimously approved in the Georgia House on Thursday.

House Bill 757, known as the Pastor Protect Act, sponsored by Rep. Kevin Tanner, R-Dawsonville, passed 161-0 and now goes to the Senate.

The bill, supported by House Speaker David Ralston, R-Blue Ridge, moved easily after several lawmakers gave impassioned, Scripture-based speeches on its behalf. Ralston also made a rare appearance on the floor of the House to support it.

Ralston pushed back on criticisms from fellow Republicans that his bill does not go far enough. Other lawmakers are proposing more extensive religious liberty bills. The House speaker said he wanted to find common ground.

"I sometimes find myself worrying that the idea of focusing on that which unites us instead of that which divides us is becoming old fashioned and dated," Ralston said. "And I think that's regrettable."

The bill, he said, addresses real concerns of voters who worried that the legalization of same-sex marriage would have adverse effects.

"This bill shows that starting where there is agreement and mutual trust can be much more productive rather than spinning into what seems to be a bottomless chasm," he said.

Chicken Tortilla Casserole

Ingredients

- 2 cups diced cooked boneless, skinless chicken breasts
- 1 can (about 15 ounces) black beans, rinsed and drained
- 1 can (15 ounces) no added salt corn, drained
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 4 green onions, chopped (about 1/2 cup)
- 2 tablespoons chili powder
- 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) Campbell's® Healthy Request® Condensed Cream of Chicken Soup
- 2 tablespoons lime juice
- 4 corn tortillas (6-inch), cut in half
- 1/3 cup shredded reduced fat Cheddar cheese

Directions

Set the oven to 350°F. Stir the chicken, beans, corn, garlic, three-fourths of the green onions, the chili powder, soup and lime juice in a large bowl.

2 Spread about 1/4 cup chicken mixture the bottom of an 8x8x2-inch baking dish. Arrange 4 tortilla halves on the chicken mixture, straight edges facing out against the edges of the dish. Top with half the remaining chicken mixture. Repeat with the remaining tortilla halves and the remaining chicken mixture. Cover the baking dish.

3 Bake for 30 minutes or until hot. Uncover the baking dish. Sprinkle with the cheese.

4 Bake, uncovered, for 5 minutes or until the cheese is melted. Sprinkle with the remaining green onions.
