Every child should be loved
for who they are.

Every child should be listened to.

Every child should be shown honesty and modeled trust.

Every child should be free
to explore their identity.

Every child should have equal opportunities for safety, education,
and attention.

Every child should have a consistent support system.

Every child should be asked for consent to make sure they are comfortable in every situation.

Every child should know
physical and emotional safety.

Every child should be able to ask for and receive help.
