6 REASONS TO SMILE

You shouldn't need a reason to smile today, but here are a few, just in case you do.

"Smile. It makes people wonder what you're up to."

This quote is attributed to Sean Keogh, author of "Bottoms up: a Cheeky Look at Life." My sister had a similar version as a painting that was hung in her bedroom in our childhood home. I read it hundreds of times as a kid, and I always smiled. She did, too. I hope you are as well.

"If you see someone without a smile, give them one of yours."

Dolly Parton has been known to share this quote, along with a great big smile. In fact, I can't envision Dolly not smiling. Wouldn't it be great if people said that about each one of us?

"You are never fully dressed without a smile." These beautiful words are from the song "You're Never Fully Dressed Without a Smile" from the Broadway musical "Annie," written by Charles Strouse and Martin Charnin.

So many people put so much time and money into their appearance, yet the greatest improvement we can all make to how we look is to simply add a smile — and it's free!

"Life is like a mirror. Smile and it smiles back at you." You have likely heard that when one person yawns, another soon will. The same is true for smiles. In fact, they multiply. A lot.

"Be the reason someone smiles today." My friend Susan used to take her finger and press it against my forehead each time I would frown. "You are going to get a permanent wrinkle there," she would say. "You should smile instead." That was great advice. It still is, which I am reminded of each time I look at that wrinkle.

"Life is short. Smile while you still have teeth." I had a friend who ran a car dealership who would say, "Buying a car shouldn't be like going to the dentist." And, he made car-buying fun. My dentist took offense to that comment, though, and would frequently say, "Going to the dentist should be fun." And, at her office, it is. Meanwhile, there is still something heart-warming about a person without teeth offering an ear-to-ear smile.

Have a great week, and thanks for reading. ■

Current new items needed are long sleeved shirts, XL boxers/briefs, duffle bags, sweatpants/sweatshirts (M-2XL), and pullover and zip-up sweatshirts (M-XL); personal care items; and coffee and snacks. Please refer to the Adel American Legion Facebook page for a detailed list. Of note is that Branch-of-Service clothing, blankets, hats and insulated mugs are residents' favorite items.

HISTORY

ADEL'S CHICK BUSINESS

BY MIKE FLINN

There was a time when most farmers and city dwellers alike raised chickens. Eggs were a welcome staple in the breakfast diet, and the meat was necessary during summer and fall when the lack of refrigeration kept farmers from slaughtering cattle or hogs since the meat was likely to spoil before it all could be used.

Tending to the flock of chickens was usually left to the woman of the house who usually had little knowledge of proper care and disease prevention. Most producers could not afford an incubator, and the few old "biddy hens" they kept were not that reliable. Buying baby chicks instead of hatching their own had many advantages.

Adel had two hatcheries. The first commercial hatchery was established in 1930 when Philo Neff leased the J. B. White building at the northwest corner of the square. The business was originally named the Adel Home Hatchery but later became known simply as Neff Hatchery.

Vern Danilson, operator of the local elevator, announced in 1936 that he was also establishing a hatchery to be located in the Skinner building on west Main. The business would have a modern up-to-date Smith incubator with temperature and humidity control. To celebrate, Danilson threw a chicken-eating party in May of 1937 at the Garoute log cabin featuring chickens from his first hatch, each weighing more than two pounds. In June, Danilson Hatchery invited the public to view a display of the new wingless chickens, a big concern to those who thought the wing the best part of the chicken. Along with a full line of poultry feeds and medicines, Danilson offered culling, blood testing and vaccinations. In 1948, Danilson purchased the Dr. Scott Building (now home of Fiesta Restaurant) and moved his hatchery to that location.

An article published in April

1951 stated that "the incubators at Neff Hatchery are capable of hatching over 48,000 chicks at one time and over 250,000 chicks are hatched every year. It takes three weeks. Leghorns, White Rock and White Leghorns predominate but lately they have been specializing in Hy-Croft chicks." The business was now located at 1010 Main St.

The hatchery business seemed to have peaked in the early 1950s. Danilson Hatchery discontinued advertising in 1950, although the elevator business continued. Neff stuck around for another 10 years but, in September of 1960, advertised a closing business sale featuring poultry equipment and remedies, brooder batteries and two Studebaker trucks.

Adel was changing, and growing chickens in the backyard was not as popular as it once was. But, even though the local hatchery was no more, you could still obtain chicks through the mail. Mail-order baby chickens actually started in the late 1800s using railroads and later airmail through the USPS to deliver chicks nationwide. Today, hatcheries use airmail for speed, coordinating deliveries with customers and postal services to minimize stress. I still remember going into our little post office in the early spring, and all you could hear was the chirping of baby chicks. ■

- 6 slices uncured, nitrate-free turkey bacon, thinly sliced
- 10 ounces frozen chopped spinach, thawed
- 3/4 teaspoon dried dillweed, crumbled
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
- 4 large egg whites
- 2 large eggs
- 1/4 cup fat-free milk
- 1 1/2 tablespoons fat-free feta cheese

- In medium bowl, whisk egg whites, eggs and milk. Pour over mixture in crust. Sprinkle feta over top.
- Bake 35-40 minutes, or until knife inserted into center comes out clean. Transfer to cooling rack. Let cool 10 minutes before cutting into wedges.
