FROM THE PUBLISHER

WHO DO YOU LIKE? AND WHY?

Those are two easy questions that seemingly everyone can answer, and they are the premise of one of our most recent contests and events with CITYVIEW magazine — Des Moines' Most Likeable People.

This fun social networking contest and charity event started out much differently. It was originally Des Moines' Sexiest People, which was modeled after People magazine's "Sexiest Man Alive" and "Sexiest Woman Alive" articles. For our effort, we chose local people who we thought defined sexy, and we wrote a story explaining why. In the six or so years that we did this, the list included locals like former WHO-TV anchor John Bachman, Des Moines Buccaneers GM Nate Teut, former DMPS superintendent Nancy Sebring, local musician Randy Burk, bar owner Frankie Farrell and former Des Moines Register publisher Laura Hollingsworth, among many others.

Our advertising sales manager at the time thought she could pull off an event tied into this, and she did.

We invited our selection of Des Moines' sexiest people to a party where they were honored and received gifts from local businesses. Those in attendance voted for their top selections via applause, and we officially named Des Moines' Sexiest Man and Des Moines' Sexiest Woman.

To be honest, it felt a bit awkward for most everyone involved. This was best summed up when honoree Mike Pace (the lottery, Iowa Realty and this-is-where-you-buy-your-Chevy spokesperson) called to let us know that he would not be able to attend our "sex party."

So we decided to change it up. Being called sexy may be uncomfortable for some, but who doesn't want to be called "likeable"? And who doesn't want to promote a chosen charity? Bingo! We changed the rating process to fall in line with social media platforms, and we used Facebook to have our readers "like" each candidate. The top eight men and the top eight women with the most likes were then invited to a party where they and their chosen charities were honored. It worked immediately, and it continues to be successful.

So who do you like? And why? Take a minute now and visit mostlikeable.dmcityview.com where you can submit names and photos of people you like. Friends. Neighbors. Family members. Co-workers. Anyone you like. And then be sure to follow the link to the Facebook page later and "like" them there, too.

Thanks for reading. ■

INPUT SOUGHT ON DALLAS CENTER COMPREHENSIVE PLAN

The Dallas Center Plan & Zoning Commission has started working on an update to the City's Comprehensive Plan. The Comprehensive Plan is a legally required planning document that guides the City's zoning decisions and future growth plans, and it is typically updated once every 10 years. P&Z is seeking input from community members as part of this process. People who live in the city limits, work in Dallas Center or spend considerable time in the community are asked to complete the survey at dallascentersurvey.com. The survey is open until Sept. 30. ■

GRIMES CHAMBER LUNCH & LEARN

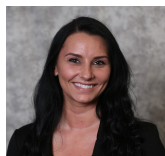

Each month, Grimes Chamber & Economic Development gives its members the opportunity to meet for networking, lunch and to learn about items of interest regarding Grimes and the Metro area. The public is invited to the next meeting, Wednesday, Oct. 13, 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Grimes Community Complex, 410 S.E. Main St., Room 402. This month, the group will be hearing from Joan Warren with Cooking by J. The meal will be catered by Cooking by J. Cost is $15 for members, $20 for non-members and walk-ins, and $7.50 without lunch. Register online at <https://business.grimesiowa.com/events>. ■

JOIN COMMUNITY CONVERSATIONS WITH THE GRIMES PUBLIC LIBRARY

Join Community Conversations by reading the designated books and joining Grimes Public Library and ISU Professor of Leadership Dr. Chad Cardani-Trollinger. These free community conversations focus on emotional wellbeing and personal development. Digital, audio and print copies are available through Grimes Public Library. Registration is required. The final event is Oct. 12. The topic is "Daring Greatly." ■
