MR. SNUFFLEUPAGUS, SAM THE BUTCHER AND WRONGWAY FELDMAN

The younger generation today is often criticized for spending too much time on their cell phones. Kids in my generation were criticized for spending too much time watching TV. Same problem. Different devices.

But is too much time with electronics really a problem? Or is it just a fad? Today, I watch very little television. But, as a kid, I spent many hours plopped down in my bean bag chair on the shag carpet as close as I could get to our console TV.

I believe we had an RCA television set. It was built like a tank and weighed about the same, too. It looked like it had a dark wooden cabinet, but it was probably hard plastic. Mom had it so polished with Pledge, it was difficult to tell.

In all honesty, I spent more time with that TV in my youth than I did with anything else. It introduced me to Mr. Snuffleupagus and Mr. Hooper, and I learned about interjections, adverbs and Conjunction Junction from it.

I got to know Sam the butcher, Sgt. Schultz and Wrongway Feldman from our TV. Lenny and Squiggy connected with me through its screen and made me laugh, but I never understood why Shirley kept telling Carmine to take a cold shower. I watched Fonzie jump the shark on it — over two episodes.

I discovered the Na-No Na-No handshake and why the man put the car in the oven. I learned about the suffering of Kunta Kinte, and I watched Evel Knievel take many spills.

Our TV didn't have a remote control, but it did have a set of pliers to turn the channels when the plastic knob broke.

The TV screen was a perfect square, unlike the rectangle versions of today. When we watched the ABC Sunday Night Movie, we were often introduced with the “formatted to fit your screen” message, which meant the edges were cut off.

Speaking of those Sunday night movies, seeing them on TV was a big deal. If you didn't catch the movies at the theater (and we rarely did), then you relied on the TV premier, which was typically a year or two later. No streaming. No DVDs. No VHS rentals. Just heavy edits and a lot of commercials.

You may say I was attached to our TV. I would guess Dad said that a time or two, much like I have said about my kids and their phones. One has to wonder, though, what memories will today's kids have of the content on their phones 50 years from now?

Have a great week, and thanks for reading. ■

RUTH SCHULER

Ruth J. Schuler, former mayor of Johnston, died on Jan. 11, 2024, after a brief illness. Ruth was born on Sept. 17, 1935, in Hampton to Esther and Ernest Winter. She graduated from Iowa Falls High School in 1953 and attended the University of Iowa for one year. On Nov. 26, 1955, she married her high school sweetheart Donald “Dean” Schuler. They had two daughters, Christina and Kathleen, after moving to Des Moines.

She was a legal secretary and administrative assistant in Des Moines until the early 1970s when she became a buyer and retail seller of fine gifts and quality merchandise for Josephs Jewelry in Des Moines. She worked there for more than 25 years until she retired in the mid 1990s. During her time in Iowa, she lived with her family in Johnston.

Ruth was involved with local politics in Johnston and held many positions, including being mayor in 1980 and 1981. She was the first of three women who have served as the mayor of Johnston. For many years, she also served on the Johnston City Council, as well as the Planning and Zoning Commission.

She and her husband, Dean, spent their early retirement years in Marco Island, Florida. She was elected to the first city council of Marco Island in 1997 and served until 2001 when they moved to Naples, Florida.

Ruth was preceded in death by her husband of 67 years, Donald Dean Schuler. Ruth is survived by her sister Mary (John) Leonforte, a nephew and nieces, and Ruth and Dean’s two daughters, Christina (Gregory) Woods and Kathleen (Warren “Shep”) Sparks. She is also survived by her four grandsons, Jeffrey and Zachary Woods, Warren and Winter Sparks.

Memorial donations may be made to the American Heart Association. Cremation has been entrusted to The Beachwood Society in Naples. ■

WINTER WEATHER IMPACTS LOCAL BLOOD SUPPLY

Nearly 3,000 were impacted recently due to a blizzard warning that brought many parts of LifeServe Blood Center's service area inches, if not feet of snow last week. While weather often brings cancellations, the need for life-saving products for transfusion and treatment never stops.

In a recent week alone, LifeServe had to cancel multiple mobile blood drives and adjust hours or close donor centers resulting in close to 1,000 units lost. The good news is... you can help. If you had to cancel your donation, please make plans to reschedule. If you didn't have an appointment to donate, the good news is you can still make one today to assist in replenishing the blood supply. To schedule, visit www.lifeservebloodcenter.org, or call 800-287-4903. ■

Every third week of the month, they collect for the Friday food bag program that serves food insecure students at all nine Johnston schools. They are currently providing about 200 bags per week. Their needs are: Ramen noodles, macaroni and cheese, granola bars, individual shelf stable milk, individual peanut butter and fruit cups. ■
