PATRIOTISM SHOULD NOT HAVE TO BE A LAW

"I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America." I have said those 12 words and the 19 that come after them many times in my life, mostly in the classrooms of my youth. They had meaning to me then, and they still do today. As they should.

If I am wearing a hat, I remove it when the flag is present.

When I see American soldiers, I thank them for their service.

I respect our president and commander of our Armed Forces, regardless of who it is.

I flunked choir in eighth grade, yet I still sing our national anthem every chance I get. And when the words "gave proof through the night that our flag was still there" are sung, I get goosebumps.

I never served in our military, but, at times, I wish I would have. I believe the experience would have made me a better American and a better person.

I don't know why I feel the way I do about patriotism.

It was probably instilled in me by my father and my teachers and my coaches and my pastors. I never felt it was forced on me or that I was guilted into it. I am quite proud to be an American, and I am forever thankful to those who sacrificed to allow me to have the freedoms I have.

Even so, when Iowa legislators discuss enacting a law to require students in public schools to stand and sing portions of "The Star-Spangled Banner" on a daily basis, I am torn. I don't know that yet another law is needed. (I have a strong feeling that when any new law is enacted, an old law should be eliminated. That goes for new taxes, too.) Even though a law requiring this may be excessive, encouragement to sing our national anthem certainly seems appropriate.

If a public school teacher doesn't want to do this in his or her classroom, so be it. That decision will say a lot on its own.

I walked into a public high school the other day, and the ceiling in the commons area was draped with dozens of flags from other countries. I didn't see an American flag at first glance, but I certainly hope one was there. Americans don't need to be disrespectful to other countries to show patriotism for their own, but there should be no question where one's loyalties need to be. If a person truly despises our "land of the free and the home of the brave" that much, there are 194 other options.

Have a great week, and thanks for reading. ■

RECIPE

GIVE COMFORT FOOD CLASSICS A MEXICAN TWIST

(Family Features) If winter evenings have you stuck in a dinner rut, heat up the kitchen with family favorites everyone can look forward to. Shaking off the chill can start with a cozy blanket and comforting food that warms you from the inside out.

For a flavorful side that complements a variety of main courses while adding Mexican flair, consider Mexican loaded mashed potatoes. This recipe is a familiar favorite with the unique twist of bacon and pork chorizo for a meat-infused recipe that will become a menu mainstay.

Plus, for an extra creamy texture, it calls for cacique crema Mexicana — an everyday table cream with a neutral, fresh-tasting flavor ideal for balancing out spice — and Oaxaca, a semisoft cheese with a mellow, buttery flavor. ■

MEXICAN LOADED MASHED POTATOES

Prep time: 35 minutes

Cook time: 40 minutes

Servings: 10

- 3 pounds russet potatoes (about 9 medium potatoes), peeled and cubed
- 6 bacon strips, chopped
- 1 package Cacique Pork Chorizo
- 12 ounces Cacique Crema Mexicana
- 1/2 cup butter, cubed
- 1 1/2 teaspoons onion powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup Cacique Oaxaca or Queso Quesadilla, shredded
- 1/2 cup Cacique Crema Mexicana Agria, for topping (optional)
- 3 green onions, chopped

Directions:

In Dutch oven, add potatoes and cover with water. Bring to boil. Reduce heat; cook, uncovered, 10-15 minutes, or until tender.

In skillet over medium heat, cook bacon until crisp. Drain on paper towels, chop into small pieces and set aside. Remove bacon grease from skillet and cook chorizo over medium-high heat, 6-8 minutes.

Drain potatoes; add to pan. Mash potatoes, gradually adding crema Mexicana, butter, onion powder, salt, garlic powder and pepper. Transfer to greased 13-by-9-inch baking dish; sprinkle with cheese, chorizo and bacon. Refrigerate, covered, up to 1 day.

Preheat oven to 350 F. Remove potatoes from refrigerator and let stand while oven heats. Bake, covered, about 30 minutes. Uncover; bake 10 minutes, or until heated through.

Drizzle with crema Mexicana agria and chopped green onions.
