Four Way Test of the Things We Think, Say, or Do...

#1 Is it the TRUTH?

*#2 Is it FAIR to
ALL concerned?*

#3 Will it BUILD goodwill and BETTER friendship?

*#4 Will it be BENEFICIAL to
all concerned?*

Our Program Today:

Kaye Cowley, Lincoln County Family Resource Center

Presented by Lucy Williams

Kaye Cowley serves as director of the Lincoln County Family Resource Center, which is dedicated to meeting the needs of children and families through services that exemplify the phrase, "It takes a village." The center offers training opportunities, best practices, and a myriad of resources.

Kaye and her husband, Randy, have lived in Lincoln County all their lives and now reside in Howell Hill where they raised three sons, Chad, Brad, and Chase, on Kaye's family farm. The three boys have all married hard-working ladies, whose families have deep roots in Lincoln County. Randy and Kaye have also been blessed with three beautiful grandchildren who keep them very busy!

Kaye holds a Bachelor's of Science in Education from Middle Tennessee State University and has taught elementary and special education in both Franklin County and here in Lincoln County. Upon leaving the classroom, Kaye worked for the Chamber of Commerce and the Industrial Development Board until she returned to the Lincoln County Department of Education to serve at-risk children and their families through the Family Resource Center where she has worked for the last 15 years.

20 Years at the Best Western

This year, the Rotary Club of Fayetteville marks its 20th year of meeting at the Best Western Fayetteville Inn!

The old First Baptist Church on Washington Street became the home of the Fayetteville Rotary Club in the spring of 1955, just a few years after the 1952 tornado that swept through the city, destroying homes and churches. During the tornado, the roof was blown off the building.

The club continued meeting there until 1997. In the fall of 1996, the club had voted to sell the building, and in February 1997, members started meeting at the Best Western Fayetteville Inn.
