All Good Dawgs, Inc. signs first class of AGD Ambassadors

INDIANAPOLIS - Student athletes from Butler University's men's basketball program signed the first name, image, and likeness (NIL) contracts with All Good Dawgs, Inc. These contracts will allow the new AGD Ambassadors to make meaningful impacts in the Indianapolis community and beyond. Additionally, the AGD Ambassadors will participate in financial literacy, legal, and brand education sessions provided by AGD volunteers that will provide opportunities for personal growth.

“All Good Dawgs was formed to provide long term success for Butler student athletes through community service, experiential education, and lifelong relationships.” said Executive Director Mark McFatrige.

AGD has partnered with 12 nonprofits and paired each ambassador with a nonprofit that best fits their passions and interests. When signing with AGD, these players agreed to partner with each nonprofit and provide them with services to help amplify their missions.

“To be able to have the opportunity to help kids and give back to the community is something I've always loved to do and I appreciate All Good Dawgs for making it happen.” said senior John Michael Mulloy.
