You Can't Make This Up!

"How do we have a large body of people that are in our city, and country, that are excellent swimmers and, at the same time, we need lifeguards -- and the only obstacle is that we won't give them the right to work to become a lifeguard."
- NYC (D) Mayor Eric Adams

NYC Mayor Adams says many illegals are excellent swimmers (I guess because they waded across the Rio Grande), so let's make them lifeguards? I bet their NYC taxpayer funded plastic prepaid debit cards help them float!

Does the Mayor also believe that unemployed NYC Black citizens are not qualified as lifeguards because they all can't swim??

Maryland My Maryland - We Are Tops In The Nation!

Illegal alien kids are showing up at our doorstep in alarming numbers

Maryland does not usually lead the nation in anything, aside from Baltimore being in the annual running as the national murder capital. But now we have a new title, which one can argue is just as costly for citizens and taxpayers. And costly for the migrant children who are seemingly handed off to literally anyone, and I mean anyone. See article below:

"Unaccompanied migrant children come to Maryland at a higher rate than any other state"

Maryland has by far the highest rate of migrant children. No other state was close!

Maryland is getting an influx of unaccompanied minors, mostly from Central America. Prince Georges County (PGC) is the 2nd ranked recipient of these kids behind Baltimore City (must be attracted to Baltimore Mayor Brandon Scott's lucrative squeegee jobs?)

PGC County Executive Angela Alsobrooks also loves to support these exploited kids along with our friends at Casa of Maryland (HQ in PGC), Catholic Charities, and other pro-illegal alien groups. Taxpayers foot the bill for public schooling, healthcare, other medical and dental needs, MS-13 gang violence, child and labor trafficking, crime, criminal justice, prostitution, Fentanyl/drugs, English and other language classes, housing, food stamps, welfare, even in-state college tuition, etc. These costs are always hidden under the table of course.

Unfortunately, Black students are paying the price as Baltimore and PGC have the majority of worst ranked schools in the State. Resources and focus have shifted to these minors instead of our kids. Black youth unemployment is also double digit as "immigrants" take their jobs as well.

This influx of mostly Central American minors has also caused the Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS) to push a new program which downplays English because the schools are getting overwhelmed with non-English speakers! Again we the taxpayers are footing the bill, and minority students in MoCo are paying the price. See below:

Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS) - "The Great Leap Forward?"
by Brad Botwin, Director, Help Save Maryland.org

"English? We Don't Need No Stinking English!"

These are desperate times at MCPS. The school system is being overrun with new students who have entered the country illegally or are anchor babies. Mostly Hispanics, these students have little if any education or English skills. English is often not spoken in the home. Their native language skills are also questionable from their lack of schooling in their home countries.

With Hispanic student domination in more and more schools across the county, MCPS first attempted to solve the nosediving test scores of students by creating a "Two-Way Immersion Program" (Spanish/English) in elementary schools with 60% or more Hispanic students. Half-Day English and Half-Day Spanish - Black, Asian and White Students in those schools are forced to learn Math, Science, Social Studies and more in Spanish. It does not work, although Hispanic students may feel somewhat more comfortable. Unfortunately overall student test scores continue to decline. In sum, it's a recipe for an expense, taxpayer funded, educational disaster.

Note: Why has MCPS delayed posting actual individual public school ethnicity statistics for more than 2 years? Where is the 2023 and 2024 student data?

But these facts have not deterred the MCPS leadership. With the illegal alien student population continuing to grow in leaps and bounds, MCPS has now shockingly decided to "shift away from prioritizing English proficiency over native languages and culture" in all county schools! This new so-called Emergent Multilingual Learners (EML) program is a dangerous step for our uninvited students, current and new, as they will fall behind their peers in English language and effectively every school subject from math to science to social studies.

Moreover, these EML students will have difficulty fitting into American society and the competitive job market. Passing watered down, "affirmative action" style MCPS tests (which have failed in the black community) because of fear of English proficiency shortfalls will not make it easier for these foreign students to succeed in our country as Americans. "MCPS will provide assessments that minimize cultural and linguistic biases, including native language assessments for EML." What? Shameful and harmful!

Non-English native languages should be taught in the home, in specialized after school programs, or in pure immersion public and private school programs. Montgomery County taxpayers should not be paying for teaching uninvited immigrants in their native languages. Rather these students should be given intensive doses of the English language and American culture. Just like my grandparents and great-grandparents were required to do when they legally immigrated to this country.

Similarly, how wrong is it to be teaching these uninvited guests about their native cultures with our tax dollars? Recall that these students and their families allegedly arrived here to escape their corrupt countries and cultures, and to fully embrace ours. MCPS should be focusing on teaching all students the extraordinary details of American History and Culture. It is beyond embarrassing how little all our students (native and new) know about American History and Culture. Learning about non-U.S. cultures is a secondary, lower priority, MCPS school activity.

In sum, the basic premise of the new Emergent Multilingual Learners (EML) is misleading and inaccurate. Sure, diversity in thought, culture, and traits can be positive, but is clearly misguided in this context. The English language brings all Americans together and should be the common denominator for the nation. Equally important, American Culture also brings our society together as one country. It is not the job of the MCPS to teach non-immersion program languages and foreign cultures in our schools on such a grand scale. Instead, it should be a small portion of the overall student social studies and foreign language curriculum.

The real reason MCPS has created the Emergent Multilingual Learners program is because the Biden Administration has blatantly opened the human floodgates at our Southern and Northern Borders, allowing in more foreign nationals than can be fully vetted and assimilated. Normally, one million legal immigrants are fully vetted and allowed in each year. Biden has allowed in an additional 10 million unvetted, unhealthy, uneducated, uninvited, unskilled, non-English speaking border jumpers in nearly four years. These numbers are overwhelming the MCPS and their teachers.

I would argue that EML will create, not eliminate, barriers for these students and their families. The entire EML program needs to be scraped and revised, with real community input from groups like Help Save Maryland.org and individuals other than Casa of Maryland, Catholic Charities, Identity Inc, the Mayan Society, and other questionable, biased, non-mainstream American organizations. I believe that's called diversity in thought and culture.

See article below:

"MCPS Policy Change Aims to Increase Multilingualism"

"About 18.6% of all MCPS students are emergent multilingual learners, representing one of the fastest growing populations in the district with a 2.3% increase from the 2021-2022 academic year, according to MCPS.

A proposed Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS) policy change aims to increase multilingualism by teaching students English while developing their native language skills, according to April 11 board documents.

The proposed revisions would rename the policy from "Education of English Learners" to "Emergent Multilingual Learners" and will shift away from prioritizing English proficiency over native languages, according to the documents.

Yared Velazquez, MCPS Department of English Learners and Multilingual Education supervisor, said at a school board meeting April 11 that the revisions are a step in the right direction to increasing linguistic diversity.

"It's essential to appreciate the multilingualism of our emerging multilingual learners, along with recognizing the linguistic and cultural assets that they contribute to both the classroom and broader school community," Velazquez said.

MCPS students speak more than 160 languages, according to the district's website. About 43% of Montgomery County residents speak a language other than English at home and 17% of residents speak Spanish, according to U.S. census data.

The revised policy aligns with guidance from the U.S. Department of Education, the Maryland State Department of Education and an evaluation from the nonprofit Center for Applied Linguistics, according to the documents."

Illegal Immigrants and the Francis Scott Key Bridge in Baltimore

- Who was working on the Bridge when it collapsed?

Eight members of a construction crew were filling potholes on the bridge when the ship collided with the structure and caused its rapid collapse. Two workers were saved but unfortunately, 6 were killed the day of the crash. All involved were Hispanic, and the survivors and the families of the deceased do not speak a lick of English.

So this is how illegal immigration is helping Maryland? Illegal aliens are taking good paying construction jobs from citizens, and are somehow honored as heroes? Yet black citizens in Baltimore are unemployed in double digits with no job prospects. What is wrong with this picture?

Multiple articles from the usual suspects were published on the bridge workers, like they were a godsend to Baltimore and the nation. Right. One of the deceased was even a CASA of MD member (how convenient), with future aspirations to open a business to take higher paying jobs away from Americans.

Based on the article, I guess no one in Baltimore wanted the construction jobs on the bridge pouring concrete. So we let 8 illegals who clearly brought their concrete pouring skills and experience with them from Central America take the jobs.

According to the Center for Immigration Studies, only 46% of these "new arrivals" contribute to the labor force, and of those, most are minimum wage gigs as the workers are quite uneducated and unskilled. The remaining folks are a drag on the economy, public school system, healthcare system, and taxpayers.

Great Idea for Sealing the Border - Use the Pro-Hamas University Protesters!
by Nellie Bowles, staff writer, Free Press

"Get these kids running the Southern border":

"As soon as the pro-Palestine protesters took over UCLA, they set up a border system that I want to take a minute and appreciate here. They put up loads of metal barricades (they built, you might say, a wall) and gave out wrist bands to friendlies (very Coachella).

If you wanted to pass through to like, go to class on the taxpayer-funded campus, you had to answer a few real normal questions such as: "Are you a Zionist?" Wearing a large Jewish star was a problem. Wanna get into the newly staffed UCLA library? Again, the new border patrol has a quick question: "Are you a Zionist?" If yes, then sorry, no library today. UCLA campus guards helped enforce the new walls and blocked a young Jewish student from getting to class.

Protesters also made a call for supplies - specifically, and even as a Californian I blushed, vegan food, gluten-free food, rope, and zip ties. Which, yes, sounds like a sex party at the commune, but I promise you they instead want to zip-tie themselves to library carts and probably a statue.

Anyway, get these kids running the border. Asking immigrants to do American loyalty oaths is a little hardcore for me, and I don't know if I love the sound of zip ties without any body cams around, but it's a wild time down there, and we could use the organization."

CNN's Fareed Zakaria discussing the Biden Immigration System

ZAKARIA: "The whole system is broken," he said. "And Biden needs to confront that and say, you know, 'We are going to have to reform the whole system.' I would wish he'd do something much more extreme, like, say 'the old asylum system is dead. No one is coming in through that process. You have to apply from your home country'."

MARGARET HOOVER: "Which was, which was a Trump policy."

ZAKARIA: "Which was a Trump— and also the Mexico, let— you know, you have to be in Mexico to apply. I think that's all correct."

HOOVER: "So strategically, you think [cross] if Biden would tack towards Trump policies he would have a better political chance?"

ZAKARIA: "Yeah. And by the way, it's the right policy because the old asylum system is being gamed by millions of people."
