Captioned phones are available at NO COST for those with hearing loss.

Hearing loss can be gradual or sudden. Help is made possible by Title IV of the Americans with Disabilities Act, which established the Telecommunications Relay Service. All Internet and telephone companies in the United States must pay a fraction of their fees into a fund. You may have noticed something called a Universal Service Fee on your phone bill. It's been there since the 1990s. This fee (that you've been paying for a long time) provides funding to help people with hearing loss access the phone system. That is how we get paid. There is never any upfront cost to you and never any monthly charge for the service and equipment we provide. You are eligible to receive this service if you have:

Hearing loss.

A landline (a phone jack that provides a dial tone)

An Internet connection

With the ClearCaptions phone, you talk like you normally talk, listen as best you can, and you can read what you missed. The phone has both a handset and a speakerphone, so you can use whatever works best with your hearing. The audio is designed for people with hearing difficulties and works with or without hearing aids. The phone has large text and buttons, along with an answering machine that will caption the message, and is very easy to use. Recently, I installed a phone for a person who just celebrated her hundredth birthday. Once again, there is NO COST EVER for a person with hearing loss who needs the phone. You need your own landline and Internet to make it work. If you qualify, call me. We'll schedule a time. I'll come out, install the phone, and teach you how the service works. You keep and use all of your current phones. You use your own Internet and telephone service.

Contact your local Title IV ADA Specialist, Michelle Bright at 704-619-5291 or michelle.bright@clearcaptions.com and find out how to get your captioned telephone today!

In The Stillness

Sharing The Joy
Poetry By Cheryl Murph

In the stillness of my mind I find a place where i seek refuge with my Father above.

I long to feel his presence and like the innocence of a child I want to be held and know his love.

As noise surrounds me, it follows me everywhere I go.

I must find my shelter of silence so when my Father speaks his voice I will know.

I need no human counsel or room full of friends but only my Father and I.

As my spirit is stirred I experience the emotions of joy, sorrow and comfort in these tears that I cry.

I ask for contentment with what I have and may I not ask for more.

I pray for the souls of the wealthy that are always smiling yet for the humble they scatter themselves among the poor.

I know Satan will taunt me and test me this whole day long, but in the stillness I reclaim my power to fight my battles and sing my victory song.

I can always find my stillness weather I am at home, in a store or somewhere away.

Because where i go my head goes.

And there is where i tell my mind to be still, seek God and pray,pray, pray.

Remember til our paths cross again, Philippians 4:4-10
