What You Need To Know About Cholesterol

It's a healthy idea to be your own advocate when it comes to managing your cholesterol levels.

(NAPSI)—New cholesterol guidelines from the American Heart Association emphasize a personalized approach to preventing and treating high cholesterol and cardiovascular disease.

What Cholesterol Is
Cholesterol is a waxy substance that your body makes to build cells. Too much can pose a problem. Extra cholesterol comes from foods including meat, poultry, dairy and tropical oils.

Why Cholesterol Matters
Cholesterol can slowly build up in your arteries and form a thick, hard deposit that narrows them and makes them less flexible. If a blood clot blocks a narrowed artery, a heart attack or stroke can result.

What To Do
Ask your doctor such questions as:

Q. What do cholesterol numbers mean?

A. Studies suggest optimal cholesterol levels are about 150 mg/dL and about 100 mg/dL for low-density lipoprotein cholesterol (LDL-C). Levels in this range are linked to lower rates of heart disease and stroke.

There's no ideal target for LDL-C but "lower is better." Assessment with a risk calculator helps your doctor determine your personal risk and treatment options. A coronary artery calcium test may also help with your assessment.

Q. How can I lower my risk for heart disease?

A. A healthy lifestyle is critical. Also, while statins are still the first choice of medication for lowering cholesterol, new drugs are available for people who have had a heart attack or stroke and are at risk for another. Your doctor will monitor your progress.

Q. How do I know if my medicine is working?

A. It may take a few tries to find the right medicine and dose.

"Finding the sweet spot for treatment is highly individualized," said Donald Lloyd-Jones, M.D., a member of the cholesterol guideline writing committee and chair of the Department of Preventive Medicine at Northwestern University in Chicago. "The latest guidelines strongly encourage patient and doctor to have detailed and personalized discussions about medication."

Ask your doctor about medicines, foods—such as grapefruit or pomegranate—or supplements that may interact with your cholesterol-lowering medication.

Q. When and how often should I follow up?

A. Have a follow-up visit one to three months after starting cholesterol-lowering medication to check that it's working, that you're taking it properly, and to monitor for side effects.

Rock Bottom

Sharing The Joy

Poetry By Cheryl Murph

At times when we must to hit rock bottom
we may ask ourselves, what can I do?
But when you are at the bottom your choice's are few.
We can just stay there and soak in our own self pity all alone.
We can find a way to drown our problem in alcohol or drugs, and for a while it is gone.
Or we can get on our knees since we are already at the end of our rope, and look up to the Heavens and ask God
to help us up and give us hope.
Many times we think it is easiest to try and fix our problems on our own.
Or we can hide it on the shelf and pretend it is gone.
But when it is something that hit's you so hard you feel as if you just can't survive, you will discover calling on God and relying on his strength will be what keeps you alive.
He knows in advance we will hit rock bottom
but it is because he cares.
For most of us it takes something so drastic to get our attention and know he is there.

Remember til our paths cross again, Philippians 4:4-10
