Miracles

Sharing The Joy
Poetry By Cheryl Murph

Ms. Odessa was a neat and dainty middle aged woman who lived all alone. She minded her own business and sought to please God more than anyone I have ever known. In the winter her smoke cut through the crisp air leaving behind the smell of the wild cherry in which she loved to burn. She got eggs from her chickens, milk from her cow along with the butter she would churn. Ever year she raised a hog and sold fresh sausage that was the best money could buy. She also sold homemade jam, jellies and apple pie's. Her lawn looked as if it were green velvet except for the daisy's and perrywinkle that spread on the ground. Ms.Odessa considered her home a piece of Heaven on earth she had found. Her hands were weathered and her skin tanned like a hide from the wind, rain and sun. Her hair almost completely gray yet when it came to stress Ms.Odessa had none. She used what God gave her and seen her work as a blessing, not a chore. She knew in her heart she was rich. She was completely content with no desire for more. It is said that people are so much smarter and so much more intelligent now than they were years ago. But i disagree. If there were more Ms.Odessa's in the world and less idiot's then that is called progress to me.

Remember til our paths cross again, Philippians 4:4-10 To read more of Cheryl's work find her on Facebook. If you would like to have Cheryl write a special poem for your loved one, contact her at lulymoon1961@yahoo.com
