Seeds

Sharing The Joy
Poetry By Cheryl Murphy

I suppose we all have planted seeds of regret and can understand the words "You shall reap what you sow". Weather it is seeds planted intentionally or merely by mistake, one thing is for certain only ourselves and the good Lord knows. Some seeds we inherit that trickle down from our family tree. Sickness, beauty, money, talents, and many more. Just so happens I have had a few that I wish could have been ignored. I know I have heard other folks speak of children being from a bad egg or saying "yep, they come from a bad seed".

The sad thing is not all children are disciplined and taught about Jesus Christ and his love that they desperately need.

Even some of the best parents in the world can have five or six kids and one or two of them will be in trouble until the day they die. I suppose this is just one of life's mysteries and I often ask myself why? I do believe from childhood to adulthood we are constantly planting seeds. Unlike a beautiful flower our seeds are made of human ingredients called choices and decisions which can be good or bad indeed.

Weather we are born of a silver spoon or dirt poor our seeds in many ways are all the same.

While one man wears an orange jumpsuit all day, one man wears a suit and tie. One chose to harvest a crop, the other chose to release his anger and pain. But our seeds of sin can be whiter than snow if their washed in the blood of the lamb and not by another.

Either way when we go to our eternal home we won't be alone.

The choice is up to oneself so choose wisely my sister's and brother's.

Matt 13: 1-9

Remember til our paths cross again, Philippians 4:4-10
