Like a Jigsaw Puzzle

Sharing The Joy

Poetry By Cheryl Murph

I have compared my life often to that of a jigsaw puzzle.
It's pieces scattered all over the dinning room table.
First of all we know in order to fit the pieces together in their rightful place it must rest on something flat and stable.
As the pieces lay scattered so many of them look as if they are shaped the same way.
Like life, our days are our pieces.
We have our routine and we do the same thing over and over everyday.
When working on a puzzle I know I have had it almost done and realize a certain piece can not be found!
I look everywhere, on the table, on the floor, under the furniture and all around.
Like life, our circumstances are our pieces that we expect to fall into place as our daily routine moves right along.
Unfortunately we never know when something may go terribly wrong.
One piece can keep us from moving on.
Then as we struggle with our unwanted piece, we step back and look only to find we have a whole heap of pieces in one pile.
Like life, our pieces have become our problems and this is when I wish I could step away from it for a while.
When doing a puzzle I can leave it and not work on it for a week or two.
Then when I do it's like starting all over and my mind is renewed.
However with life it's pieces are for more difficult than the ones I put together for fun.
We make progress, we learn, we grow from our pieces, yet as long as we are living we will never be done.
But when we draw our last breath, our final piece will fall in it's place for all the world to see.
And my life like a jigsaw puzzle will be complete.
My reputation will only be meaningless pieces thats left of me.

Remember til our paths cross again, Philippians 4:4-10
